

WELCOME!

Salt Bay Chamberfest's 23rd season, Move Me!, is about movement and music.

Music has the power to move us emotionally, in the deepest and most profound ways. It can also move us physically, and even metaphorically. In this captivating season, we will explore these and other movements in, of, and about music, with an innovative array of chamber works by composers from J.S. Bach to the present day. Join us for a special world premiere and SBC co-commissioned work by composer Angel Lam; a trailblazing work by Iannis Xenakis for six percussionists that surround the audience; and our very first collaboration with a dancer, featuring Edwin Olvera, formerly of Pilobolus.

I am deeply honored to welcome such distinctive artists to Midcoast Maine this summer to bring all this music and movement to life. I hope you will join us!

PARTNERING WITH THE COMMUNITY

Join us for more free offerings than ever before!

Off Topic! Our musicians are experts in much more than chamber music, so we're offering two free, informal, one-hour talks to plumb their knowledge and experience. Join us on the Monday afternoons of August 7 and 14 as pianists Thomas Sauer and Michael Boriskin each share one of their favorite composers with us.

Pre-Concert Talks, at 6:30 p.m. before each evening concert with Mark Mandarano, are a wonderful way to learn more about the evening's music and its composers for all ticket holders.

Open Rehearsals, on concert mornings at 10 a.m. at the Barn, are open to the community.

Master Class, on August 11, 1 p.m. at Schooner Cove, is an opportunity for young musicians to learn from Salt Bay Chamberfest performers. Featuring violinist Jennifer Koh and others.

Family Concert, on August 19, 10:30 a.m. at the Skidompha Public Library, is a fun way to introduce children to classical music, and is free for all.

COME EARLY AND STAY LATE!

Come early before the concerts and enjoy a picnic under a tent on the Round Top Farm grounds. Maine dinner fare will be prepared by Damariscotta River Grill starting at 6 p.m. Our very own Moo Café will have tempting homemade treats and coffee before the concerts and during intermission. Afterwards, stick around to meet our musicians for post-concert mingling.
